Title of the course: CCT-2: Theories of Evaluation
Course (Paper) Unique Code CORE 1601070103010200

Objectives:

This course attempts to acquaint learners with critical theories that tend to evaluate fundamental cornerstones of human society and its condition from a relatively contemporary perspective. All the essays considered here have been published after 1975. The course also balances men and women theoreticians at an equal ratio achieving thereby a modicum of inclusivity. The course thus attempts to facilitate an exposure to the latest literary-critical thought that might inspire learners towards research in contemporary theoretical trends. The course is divided into the following units:

Course content:

Unit 1: The Modern and the Postmodern
   a) Jürgen Habermas: “Modernity – An Incomplete Project”
   b) Jean-Francois Lyotard: “Defining the Postmodern”

Unit 2: Race and Gender
   a) Hélène Cixous: “The Laugh of the Medusa”
   b) bell hooks: “Postmodern Blackness”

Unit 3: Cultural Studies
   a) Raymond Williams: “Resources for a Journey of Hope”
   b) Stuart Hall: “Cultural Studies and its Theoretical Legacies”

Unit 4: The Humanities, Literature and Value
